

SilverTip Marine's Always-on Wireless Security System Made Available to Tow Boat Owners

RCMP security expert states that Canadian boat thefts result in over $60-million in losses annually and numbers continue to rise

Vancouver International Boat Show, February 11, 2005 – SilverTip Marine announced today that its flagship product, the ESP 3000 Marine Security System, will now be available as a factory option on Svfara Performance Tow Boats. “We are pleased to be working with Svfara to help protect their impressive line of boats,” stated Ian McEachern, President & CEO of SilverTip Marine. “Svfara takes pride in delivering a luxurious handcrafted tournament boat with the most innovative design technology. The ESP 3000 is a natural fit with our premium product offering,” said Scott Roddick, President of Svfara Marine Inc.

The SilverTip Marine ESP 3000 allows boat owners to maintain contact with their boats, whether they are on a trailer or moored in a marina, from virtually anywhere in the world, 24 hours a day. Using real-time two-way communications, sensors placed throughout the boat, trigger immediate alarm messages via telephone, text messaging or email, instantaneously alerting owners to a problem. Even if a thief moves the boat, the chances of recovery are far greater since the owner is able to track the boat's movements via satellite and pinpoint its location in real-time through a web interface accessible through any computer.

Unlike other options, such as adapted car alarm systems that are easily set off by wind or waves, the SilverTip Marine product has been specifically designed for the marine environment. The ESP 3000 combines two-way communication capability available through GSM / GPRS technologies with web-based functionality, advanced sensors and GPS satellite based geofencing (a perimeter-based trigger system) for a simple to use but effective boating solution.
